6-DAY SESSION IS UNDER WAY

Mayor Logan Welcomes Delegates to City

COMMITTEES NAMED

Minister Says Unions Defense Against Reds

The political eyes of Texas labor turned to Port Arthur this morning with opening of the meeting of the State Federation of Labor at the First M. E. church, south. Five hundred delegates have arrived to attend the convention and this morning the lower floor of the auditorium of the church was filled. The meeting was called to order at 10:10 o'clock by F. L. Skinner, president of the Port Arthur Central Labor Council, who acted as temporary chairman.

Inauguration was delivered by the Rev. V. A. Godbey, Mayor J. P. Logan delivered the address of welcome to the assembly, which was followed by short talks by B. L. Quinn, state representative and by George A. Slater, president of the State Federation of Labor.

Mayor Logan expressed his pleasure in welcoming the delegates to Port Arthur and gave short resume of the history of this city within the last 50 years since it has been converted from "a cow pasture to a city now conservatively estimated at 40,000 people.

He mentioned many of the improvements which have been made and still are being made here.

Every measure he pointed out, which has been for the welfare of the city has had the support of the laboring people which incidentally he mentioned constitute practically all of its population. The laboring people have at no time been destructive critics but have given good constructive criticism at all times, he said.

Quinn for Laboring Man

B. L. Quinn, state representative, pointed out that his sympathies always were and still are with the laboring people as he has been one all of his life, and was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth.

Quinn mentioned that he had been engaged in some of the hardest labor on the farm in Louisiana and had saved some money and bought him a home between Beaumont and Port Arthur of which he is proud but that he has not the wealth that is sometimes ascribed to him.

Quinn said that he favored the Workman's Compensation Act and supported it and other measures which were favorable to labor.

George Slater, Secy.

George A. Slater, president of the federation, expressed his appreciation of the convention which was previously delivered asking for divine guidance and also commented favorably on the talks made by the speakers preceding him.

Mr. Slater expressed his hope that the convention here would accomplish as much or more than any other previous convention.

The purpose of the Federation is to turn over its affairs to committees which will work and make its recommendations, he said.

The reports of the officers, he announced, will be Saturday morning (Turn to Page 2, Column 2.)

Labor Unions Defense Against Reds, Minister Tells Federation Here

"There is not an organization truer to democracy and to this country than organized labor," the Rev. K. C. Minter said this morning in an address to the Federation of Labor, held at the M. E. Church, South.

"If there is one organization which can defend America against the Bolsheviks it is the federation of organized labor," he continued.

"It is impossible for the government of the United States to reach the great ideals toward which it is striving without an effective labor organization," he emphasized.

"If the organization should fade, as it will not, but as some selfish, egotistical people think it may, I believe that the very foundation of the democracy of this country would rot."

Mr. Minter does not blame the laboring people in Russia alone for the Bolshevikism which has gripped the country, but believes that they did not have the opportunity to solve their problems as the people in this country have had to solve theirs, he said. Citizens of this country have the peculiar genius of being able to fight the battles with ligams instead of with bullets, he pointed out.

"We have an intelligent labor organization with brilliant leadership which attracts attention of the entire country which solves its problems with brains behind the ballots rather than through brute force," he declared.

ARTHUR LECOQ BURIED TUESDAY

Physical Instructor at The Franklin School Dies

Funeral services for Arthur LeCoq, 19, son of C. A. LeCoq, 1529 Eighth street, who died at the home Sunday about 6 p. m. after an illness of six days from pneumonia, will be conducted at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from St. George's Episcopal church, Rev. John Ridout, Jr., rector, officiating. Burial will be made in Greendale cemetery, under the direction of J. E. Grammer, undertaker.

What Has Neff Got Up His Sleeve; His Critics Wondering

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD The News Staff

"What has Neff got up his sleeve?" his critics ask. It is a question also asked by the politicians who believe in the old system of doing things. His answer is direct as well as explicit. In all his speeches he tells the people that he is not a candidate for any office or an applicant for any position in the gift of the people of Texas. He tells them that it is a greater honor to be governor of Texas, his native state, the second highest office in the world and because he owes the people a debt of gratitude he is asking them to vote down instructions for all candidates mentioned in connection with the democratic presidential nomination.

He Eliminates Both

First, Underwood has never been in accord with the democrats of Texas on prohibition and voted against both 18th and 19th amendments. He never assails the personal integrity of Underwood. Second, because McAdoo as a lawyer involved himself in the oil scandal by admitting that he had been an attorney for Doherty and before this had been an attorney for an Ohio steel company in 1919 and had received a fee of $250,000.00 in an income tax reduction case.

Governor Neff says as a lawyer McAdoo was within his rights perhaps when he accepted these rich (Turn to Page 2, Column 1.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE BIG

Easter Brings Out Crowds To Local Churches

Although no reports were received from St. George's Episcopal church and the Nazarene church, there were 3,925 persons in attendance at the Easter Sunday schools entered in the contest. Last Sunday all ten churches showed a total attendance of 3,000.

Special Easter programs were rendered at some of the churches, while others held the usual Sunday school lesson. Only five more Sundays remain before the close of the contest on May 25. The silver loving cup will be awarded by the Port Arthur News to the Sunday school showing the greatest percentage of increase in attendance and enrollment.

San Jacinto Day Is Observed Here

Port Arthur with all of Texas today is celebrating the anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto, which marked the victory over the Mexican armies under Santa Anna and the beginning of Texas independence.

Banks are closed and in the city schools special Texas programs are being given by the faculty and students.

S.M.U. STUDENT PROBE BEGINS

Women of Dallas Called By U. S. Grand Jury

TRY TO STOP QUIZ

But District Attorney Says It Will Go On

DALLAS, Texas, April 21.—Students of Southern Methodist University and others, including several Dallas women, have been summoned to appear before a grand jury here and tell the story of the sensational bacchanalian revel at Savage Lake, it was learned by the United Press this afternoon.

The grand jury probe of the extravagant drinking party staged by students in celebration of publication of "The Dinker" outlaw campus "scandal sheet," will begin tomorrow.

A Dallas girl who claims she was mistreated by students after the notorious lake party is expected to be the first witness to unfold details of the drunken revel. A subpoena was issued this afternoon for appearance before the federal investigators.

"This probe will go on despite efforts being made to hush it up," declared Dave Coffman, federal prosecutor. "Summons have been prepared and will be served shortly. We are determined to find out if the liquor laws were violated, and have summoned our witnesses for appearance tomorrow."

ONLY A YELLOW CUR, BUT SCOUT GAVE HIM AID

A little yellow pup, his tail ducked between his legs, trotted across the intersection of Procter and Waco avenues today.

An autoist, unheeding of the canine, whizzed from North Procter. A dog howled, and rolled into a gutter, hurt.

The auto sped on; its driver didn't even look back to see whether he had killed the dog he'd struck. What mattered a common yellow cur in his life? He was pecking at a burr, his mind preoccupied with business.

A small boy, a scout insignia on the broad brimmed hat he wore, came to a stop at the edge of the gutter. A hurried examination followed. Then disappeared up Procter a boy carrying an injured fellow pup in his arms, unsmiling of the blood and dirt rubbing against his clothing.

A dog had made a friend. So had a boy.

HOUSE SPEAKER IS ON GRIDDLE

Denies He Obtained Trunkful of Booze

SAY IT WAS FRIENDS

Declares Scalfie Was Responsible for Rumors

By FRAZER EDWARDS United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, April 21.—Speaker Gillett today entered an indignant denial before the senate investigating committee that he got a trunkful of liquor seized by the department of justice in 1919.

"It is an outrage to allow such statements to be given out," said Gillett in denouncing the testimony of Captain H. E. Hester, former department of justice agent, who told the committee last week that Gillett was the one who got the liquor.

Gillett explained that the trunk in question belonged to a constituent. It was being sent by express from Florida to Massachusetts when a bottle of liquor broke and the trunk was seized.

Gillett said that he was in Augusta, Ga., and instructed his secretary to write to the department of justice and have the trunk released. The trunk was sent to Gillett's office in the capitol and later shipped to his constituent, he said.

"I did not like the idea of the story about the liquor getting out and although it was not my liquor," said the speaker, "I am sure it smirches a man a little to have his name used in a liquor case."

WOMAN DIES HERE OF GRIEF

Sister of Dead Watchman Apoplexy Victim

Shock and grief over the death of her brother, T. K. Furlow, night watchman at the Texas Company terminals a week ago, resulted in the death of his sister, Mrs. H. W. Bounds, 48, of Dallas, at the Furlow home, 3214 Procter street, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

Trades Days Bring in Outside Buyers

First four days of the "Ten Big Trades Days" found Port Arthur merchants busier than at any other time in the city's history, dispensing wares and goods demanded by a fast-buying and interested public, according to reports made at Chamber of Commerce headquarters this morning.

"Considering the weather, Port Arthur has been best to a large number of persons every day in the campaign opened," the report asserted.

Many persons from Sabine, Nederland and Port Neches have been busy in the city purchasing goods, and taking advantage of the opportunities offered by local merchants, and it is understood that quite a number of the out-of-town buyers have secured the transportation feature offered by Port Arthur business houses on large quantity purchases.

With six additional days, including today, remaining on the program outlined originally by the "Ten Big Trades Days," local merchants who have entered the campaign expect an enormous business of result.

C-G CONSIDERS JITNEYS TONIGHT

Mayor Logan's Offer to Be Discussed

Mayor J. P. Logan's proposition that the Chamber of Commerce support the city administration in instituting a jitney plan here if steps considered by the chamber prove unfavorable will probably feature the semi-monthly meeting of directors of that organization when they convene in the commerce auditorium tonight at 7:45 o'clock.

It is understood the Chamber of Commerce will endeavor to make late some steps through which the proposed jitney ordinance may be avoided, and the demands for ample transportation over the city complied with. Mayor Logan's letter to the chamber will be read the directors during their meeting tonight.

HE SUICIDES IN GIRLS' QUARTERS

Chicago University Student Found Dead

CHICAGO, April 21.—Walter Krasch, 33, student of teaching at the University of Chicago committed suicide in the girls' dormitory by slashing his throat with a razor, according to the verdict today of Dr. Joseph Springer, coroner's physician. Krasch was discovered in a linen closet.

Dr. Springer said indications were that Krasch killed himself shortly after midnight last night.

Police are at a loss for a motive. They are hunting for a special delivery letter received from Germany by Krasch Saturday night. Krasch was from Kalamazoo, Ind. Police are also at a loss for a motive that sent Krasch to the girls' dormitory to commit suicide.

DeMolays to Hold Called Meet Tonight

A special called meeting of the Port Arthur chapter, Order of DeMolay tonight at 7:30 in the Masonic hall for the purpose of making plans to take part in the funeral exercises of Arthur LeCoq, a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. LeCoq, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from St. George's Episcopal church, is announced by Jack Hoffmeyer, master, councillor of the chapter. Full attendance of the membership is urged. Hoffmeyer said.

PT. NECHES MAN FACES CHARGES

Police Say He Was Beaten By Girl's Family

Special to The News. BEAUMONT, Texas, April 21.—Case of a young man giving his name as G. W. McNeill of Port Neches, arrested on a statutory rape charge by Patrolmen Wynne and Young, today was transferred to county jurisdiction. McNeill is being held in the county jail pending request by friends or his attorney for a preliminary hearing. Otherwise he will be held in jail until the next grand jury convenes. Sheriff Garmon said.

The man was unable to walk to the county jail from the city hall as the result of an attack made upon him by relatives and friends of an 11-year-old girl, officers said, and had to be conveyed.

According to the story told police, the little girl with her brother and another boy was walking on College street when a man came along in an automobile and invited them to take a ride. All three entered the car, but when they reached a small store, the man, it was said, told the boys to go in and buy some candy. As they stepped from the car, the man drove hurriedly away with the girl. The boys became alarmed and a report was made to the parents of the girl who in turn notified the police. Officers Wynne and Young found the car and a short time later arrested the man.

BRITISH FLYERS REACH BAGDAD

American Globe Circlers Still In Alaska

By United Press. BAGDAD, April 21.—The British around the world, Amphibian plane, piloted by Major Stuart MacLaren, arrived here Sunday from Zanz, Palestine.

Delayed By Engines

The flight was slightly delayed by engine trouble, which caused a forced landing west of the Suez canal. Repairs were made quickly, however, and the big plane was under way again within two hours. The flyers passed over Jerusalem at a height of 7,500 feet.

MacLaren now has covered 3,109 miles since leaving Calicut, Arondra, Southampton March 23, in a cumulative flying time of approximately 44 hours and 36 minutes. MacLaren's next scheduled stop is Basrah on the Arabian sea.

12,000 Acre Farm Shows Possibilities of Duff Line Territory

(This is a continuation of a series of articles on the Duff rail road line and the resources it will tap, written after a personal inspection of the territory with Col. R. C. Duff, the promoter. Others will follow.)

By TOM J. WILHELM The News Staff

In thinking of the cattle raising industry in the "backwoods" sections of Eastern Texas, many people may be inclined to regard it after a fashion of the razor back hog.

If you have believed this of the industry, change your line of thought, for it's all wrong.

In the cut-over lumber lands in the country of the Duff railroad are thousands upon thousands of acres suitable for pasturage and a certain amount of grazing. The farmers of this country year after year are paying more attention to the possibilities of this work.

Thompson Farm Example

One of the best managed farms along the entire route of the Duff line is that of Mrs. J. Lewis Thompson, wife of the prominent Houston banker, and the farm is entirely of the cut over lands, some 12,000 acres of it.

Mrs. Thompson makes a specialty of chickens, purebred Herefords and, as a base.

As for the chicken raising business, she has that down to a science—can tell on how much it costs to properly feed a single White Wyandotte hen or a thousand of them for a day or a month.

At present there are 4,000 chickens on the Thompson ranch. From this bunch 8000 fertile eggs are shipped daily to Houston hotels and hundreds of settings of fertile eggs are disposed of to chicken fanciers in all parts of the state.

Complete Chicken Farm as It Is

As complete a chicken farm as is to be found any place in the state or the United States is located at Jason on the old Trinity & Sabine line which is now a part of the Duff holdings.

Proud of Fishing Lake

Besides her work of managing the ranch Mrs. Thompson also is quite proud of a small lake on her land which abounds with bass, trout and catfish—fresh fish on the table.

Thompson ranch means nothing more than throwing a fly or spinner into the lake and pulling it out. Seventeen fish, bass and trout, ranging in size from three to six pounds each were caught in the lake in 30 minutes recently.

"I spend about three fourths of my time out here looking after things," Mrs. Thompson stated, "so you see I have my hands full with it. This year we shall clear away an added acreage."

The lands upon which successful farming is being done are all cut over timber of the huge Thompson Brothers' holdings.

Fortunes have been made already in the cutting from these lands and Mrs. Thompson is on a fair way to make another from the lands which were abandoned practically in the march after the standing timber.

BOTH SIDES REST IN THAW TRIAL

Case Probably Goes to Jury Tomorrow

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Both parties opposed to Harry K. Thaw's petition that he be freed from Kirkbride's asylum rested their case this afternoon.

Only two witnesses were called today by attorneys for the Thaw estate and for Evelyn Nesbit and then after a lengthy argument the defense rested.

The case will probably go to the jury tomorrow.

WHAT'S NEFF GOT UP SLEEVE

His Critics Wonder While He Stumps Texas

But their acceptance in view of present conditions made him unavailable as the democratic standard bearer. He regards the second round as the most damaging to McAdoo for the reason that the treasury employees who lopped off $2,000,000.00 for the steel company were former associates of McAdoo while he was holding the office of secretary of the treasury.

Everybody Busy

Neff has poured this into his audiences wherever he has appeared and he says that he is going to pound it into the people until the night of May 2. His friends, the enemies, the campaign leaders for McAdoo are not asleep. Tom Loe is directing the campaign and as he admitted one of the best gun-shoe politicians that ever came from Missouri.

Loe never hunts with a brass band. He uses the phone. He knows the game of practical politics. He held office in Missouri before coming to Texas. Sells held office before he came to Texas. Marshall Hicks is on the job. He is as keen as any. He broke with Neff because Neff would not give his support to McAdoo after the fee disclosures were made.

Neff Given Welcome

Cleburne was the former home of Sells. Neff, however, has campaign there. A state committee and a mayor-elect, all the local newspaper men and many leading democrats of Johnson county welcomed Neff and applauded him. This after a salute of seventeen guns had been fired. This powder salute is a new thing in Texas. At Weatherford the soldier boys fired a salute in honor to Neff, and then the local hands joined in a song.

It was at Weatherford that a mayor-elect, an ambitious young democrat, introduced Neff. It is remarkable the number of young men who are attending the Neff meetings. Neff and his friends say this means the going of the old system and the old politicians in Texas and the coming of men and women who more clearly represent the democratic ideals of Texas and the new civilization which came in when the old one was shot to pieces on Flander's field.

Lending democrats of Fort Worth attended the Weatherford meeting and urged the governor to make at least one speech in Tarrant county. They told him that the people were ripe for it. He promised to make it. Leading citizens of Dallas county, a day later, urged him to make a speech in that city before the passing of the month of April. They said that an unopposed delegation would appeal to the majority of the democrats of Dallas county if they could be inspired to attend the precinct convention.

Both Factions Unite

These invitations came from the democrats who represent both factions in the cities of Fort Worth and Dallas. To be more explicit, democrats who are Klansmen and democrats who are anti-Klansmen. All must that a democratic president should be elected this year but all admitted that it would be impossible to elect a democrat who is unavailable for the reason that Coolidge would have him on the defensive from the beginning until the end of the campaign.

Now Ellis and Hunt, like Collin and Grayson, are democratic strongholds. Representative Homer Hendricks introduced Neff at Wrentham and his remarks were significant. Hendricks is a young man, he is a soldier. He is a leader. The young element all he declared that the people of Ellis county were with Neff on the great constitutional principles of the hour. On the same day at Hillsboro Col. F. W. Jackson, a former soldier, declared that Neff was a statesman to whom the eyes of the nation were turning. A governor who was and is keeping the faith.

Neff the Crusader

In all his speeches Neff is telling the people that he is representing a great cause, the cause of an untried and undefeated democracy and that no advocate of a righteous cause has ever been known to fail. His speeches are the speeches of a crusader who believes in ideals and Neff has been a crusader for ideals all his life long.

No governor who wasn't a crusader would have gone to Somervell and addressed the people of Glenrose as Neff addressed them. He ventured, they all turned out, the school children attended in a body, the American flag was displayed everywhere and yet this community had been ruled until the law had been vindicated and its violators broken upon the wheels of justice.

Thus far Neff has never lost his pulse, his tongue has never betrayed him, his temper has remained unruffled and win or lose he is going down the line.

Tom Loe said to the writer, "Texas will instruct for McAdoo. It is all one way." Captain Billy Lee said to the writer, "Underwood will capture the delegation."

Governor Neff is never boastful. He believes the people are for an untried and undefeated democracy and that the delegates from Texas will be sent to New York to vote for an available man who will not be compelled to defend his record either as a democrat or as a citizen.

This much is certain: Neff is on the firing line.

6-DAY SESSION

A list of the committees was read by Henry Maize, reading clerk of the Texas State Federation of Labor.

The Rev. K. C. Minter of Woodville, the last speaker on the program this morning, expressed his belief that organized labor is the greatest factor in America today which is working against the spread of bolshevism in this country.

The future is saved for democracy by the "Shutout" of its problems by business rather than by brute force. The labor organizations with brilliant leadership, he pointed out, have used the ballot instead of the means employed by the Russians to meet measures. The peculiar genius of the American people has made it possible to fight their battles with brains.

SNEAK THIEVES ACTIVE IN BEAUMONT

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 21.—Thieves picked two doctors' homes to visit here Sunday night. A hypodermic needle and a .38 caliber pistol were stolen from the home of Dr. J. M. Guber, 1209 Broadway. While the family of Dr. D. A. Martin attended Easter services at a local church, a thief entered his home and stole a blue serge suit and an overcoat. In addition to this, there were six other homes visited over Sunday by thieves.

NEGRO STEALS $250 DIAMOND AT BEAUMONT

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 21.—Contract for erection of a new smokestack on the boiler house in the court house yard and another contract for tearing down the old one was let Monday morning in commissioners court. George Irving will erect the old one and S. S. Smith will erect the new one.

All bids for a road grader were unsatisfactory, according to Commissioner Charles Hughes of Port Arthur and a motion was made to reject them.

San Jacinto Day Observed at Houston

By United Press.

HOUSTON, April 21.—On the shores of the stream near Houston where the tide of Mexican invasion was stemmed 88 years ago, many thousands of Texans gathered here today for the anniversary observance of the battle of San Jacinto. Flowers barked the base of the shaft which marks the last sleep of stout hearted men who went to their death with the battle cry, "remember the Alamo" on their lips.

Business houses were closed today and loyal Texans made their pilgrimage to the battleground in honor of those who broke the grip of the Mexican rule under Santa Anna.

Tadeton Frustrates Robbery Attempt And Lands His Man

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 21.—An attempt to get away with $325 from the Beaumont baseball park Sunday afternoon was frustrated by Bob Tadeton, business manager of the Exporters.

A white man came to the box office and asked for a ticket. He gave him a $1 bill, but showed it so far through the grating that it fell on the floor and the ticket seller had to bend over to pick it up. As he did so, the man quickly clasped a roll of bills and started away. Tadeton, however, had watched the whole proceeding, unknown to the thief and when he started away, he ran towards him, grabbed him around the waist and called for help.

Officers in the ball park reached the scene promptly, the $325 was returned and the man taken to jail. Here he gave his age as 28 and stated that his home was in Livingston, Texas.

HOTEL TO HAVE NEW HEARING

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 21.—The troubles of the hotel Beaumont have not reached an end yet. It was recently since all witnesses have been summoned again and asked to report at the federal building on May 6, when another hearing will be held.

Last week former employees of the hotel were given a hearing on liquor violations. The case was hard fought, and it was finally decided that there was not enough evidence for a conviction.

This new case, however, has been filed against the hotel by the Internal Revenue Office at Austin, and they will ask that the hotel pay a license tax on the liquor found there, and be assessed any other fine provided for such violations. James W. Bass, collector of internal revenue at Austin will take a prominent part in the case.

High School Students In Flag Service

Special to The News.

To the blast of bugles and strains of the National Anthem, students of Port Arthur High school held regular military guard mount for raising the flag on the campus early today. J. A. McClachlin, chairman of the High school's morale committee, directing the ceremonies.

Three squads of high school boys who have had previous military training, formed the color guard, marching across the campus before the entire high school student body standing at attention while the United States and Texas state flags were raised on the staff in front of the high school building. A bugle squad from the high school band blew colors, and the high school band, under the direction of Owen Lantz, played the Star Spangled Banner.

Before retreat was sounded, McClachlin briefly addressed the students on flag etiquette.

BESIDES THESE RELATIVES ONE SON, HERBERT THOMAS, OF PORT ARTHUR, SURVIVES.

YELDERMAN IN NOTED SERMON

Special to The News.

Reads From Letter Scoring Port Arthur Morals.

"What would you say, preacher, if you knew boys and girls were going to the devil in Port Arthur tonight by the score? What would you say if you knew for rides, ostensibly 'organized' just for the pleasure of riding, were really for the purpose of drinking and carousing and raising the devil, and that young men and women of this city were going to hell as a result?"

Delivers Noted Sermon

This, in part from a lengthy letter, together with two quotations from unknown local young men along the same trend of thought and in conjunction with paragraphs read from Second Peter, 3:3, and John 3:16, constituted Rev. H. Yelderman's text in First Christian church Sunday evening, when the minister delivered his famous "Dardanelles of the Soul" sermon. The sermon, awarded first prize several years ago in a national sermon-writing contest, has won national recognition.

Picturing the famous fight waged by England to capture the Dardanelles straits from the Turks in a vivid, graphic manner, Rev. Yelderman outlined the following factors as the great fortifications of life given by the Master to guard the soul against sin:

Bulwarks of Love

"The Bible, the home, sermons, a mother's prayers, the spirit of the living God, and Jesus Christ on the Cross of Calvary."

"Three great factors," the minister said in his concluding remarks, "guard the straits to the soul against the sins of earth."

During the day, 41 missions, some through confession of faith and some by letter, were made to his church.

KENNEDY SHOWS HELD FOR TAXES

Government Says He Failed To Pay on Income

Special to The News.

CORPUS, Texas, April 21.—Con T. Kennedy's carnival, with a special train of thirty cars and a staff of 300 performers, and employees was stranded here today.

Government authorities attached the shows, pending payment of $46,500 back taxes and penalties. Kennedy, it was charged, failed to pay his 1919 income tax. His special train was guarded by federal agents.

The shows were due in Muskogee, Okla., today. Kennedy said he expected to make arrangements for release of the shows at once and that the carnival would arrive in the Oklahoma town Tuesday.

COMMISSIONER IDLE In the absence of Mayor J. P. Logan, city commissioners, who met the regular hour of 11 o'clock this morning in city hall, transacted no business.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

REFUSE PROFANE AND OLD WIVES' FABLES, AND EXERCISE THYSELF RATHER UNTO GODLINESS.—1 TIM. 4:7.

The Editorial Mind

However, comma—
Olds and Ends and Comma
on Our Morning Mail

The ice man's season is on. And if people realized the magnitude of the ice industry, there'd be less joking about it.

This year the American people will use 50 million tons of ice according to Leslie C. Smith, Jr., secretary of the American Ice Association. A little arithmetic discloses that about 800 pounds of ice will be used in 1924 for every man, woman and child. This includes refrigerators in homes, butcher shops, grocery stores, hotels, restaurants, refrigerator cars, etc.

Every day of the year, Americans pay about a million dollars for ice.

Many now living can recall the days before artificial ice, when the summer supply depended on winter freezes. Those days are gone.

Virtually all ice used by Americans is artificial, with the exception of New England and a few remote districts and farming sections. Out of the 38 million tons of ice used this year, 42 million tons will be artificial.

Did you ever stop to think what we'd do if we didn't have ice? Cities would be impossible without refrigeration to preserve vegetables and fruits and meats during the long railroad trip to market, not to mention the necessity of ice in stores, cold storage plants, homes and eating places.

A remarkable invention is artificial ice, such as is made in Port Arthur, which magically creates winter time cold during hot months of summer.

For many centuries scientists experimented trying to produce low temperatures artificially. As far back as 1775, Dr. William Cullen succeeded in manufacturing ice in his laboratory. But ice making and refrigeration did not begin to come into general use until shortly before the Civil War.

The thousands who contributed to the gradual development of the art of refrigeration are unknown to fame, apparently because their services were useful. Had they been military destroyers, monuments everywhere.

Teller, whose discoveries made cold storage possible, died in poverty.

National Child Health Day to be observed May 1 throughout the State of Texas has received the endorsement of U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, and Congressman Eugene Black of the 1st district and Tom Connolly of the 11th district.

The celebration is sponsored by the American Child Health Association, of which Herbert Hoover is president. It is the celebration of this national child health day, the American Child Health Association hopes to concentrate the attention of the nation for one day upon the welfare of the 55,000,000 children of America. Every city, town, and village is asked to plan some program of recognition of this day set aside for children of the community.

Giving his endorsement of the observance of May Day as national child health day, President Coolidge declared that "the stupendous growth of the urban population, constantly presenting new problems of child life and health which should be met by action within each community."

In a statement to the directors of the national celebration Senator Sheppard said: "I gladly join with the American Child Health Association in calling the attention of the American people to the need of making greater provision for children's lives. The child is the most precious and promising asset of the nation and nothing of greater value to humanity and civilization could be done to surround childhood and motherhood with every possible safeguard."

Armed only with lassos two Montana cowboys, making a business of roping Rocky Mountain lions alive for sale to circuses and menageries, are doing more than an army of big game hunters in protecting the more desirable wild animal life of Glacier National Park.

Bob Bakker of Libby, Mont., champion bare-handed lion catcher of America, captured 500 of these animals in the last 20 years.

Jim Whitl, of Eureka, Mont., who has only been in this "take 'em alive" business about four years, has about 300 to his credit. Presumably it may seem. Whitl's attention is writing poetry. In the summer months he is a guide in Glacier Park and his poetic strain furnishes so much entertainment for tourists that he is in much demand for mountain touring parties. Having two lions in the fire sometimes comes handy.

Bakker kills two birds with one stone for he takes the eastern hunter with him on his lion hunts and lets 'em stand in the background as spectators, giving them the thrill of their lives—something they can take back home and exaggerate into a stirring first hand experience story. The United States officials of the Naturalist Bureau of Biological Survey estimate each full grown mountain lion devours 300 white tailed deer annually. Consequently these two lion catchers have saved this species from extinction in Glacier National Park.

HIGH TAXES ON RICH PUTS BURDENS ON THE POOR, HENRY FORD DECLARES

Henry Ford, as a political man of mystery, won a hundred million dollars worth of publicity while he remained a political man of mystery. Then, without consulting the stars, he declared for Calvin Coolidge and now he isn't a political man of mystery.

He is just as willing to talk as ever. He says a high tax on the rich hurts the poor and that those who favor high impost merely advocate an increase in the cost of living. In his meek and lowly way it is his viewpoint that an administration or set of legislators advocating high taxes should be run out of office.

He also contends that high taxes on the rich put burdens on the poor. High taxes curtail industrial activity. Furthermore he says there should be nothing political about taxes. No one seems to care how much government costs provided the money is raised from the other fellow. Every cent the government spends, just as every cent a citizen spends, has come from somewhere.

From a purely selfish standpoint Wizard Henry says it does not make the least difference to him whether the government taxes him one per cent or ninety per cent; that he is in business not to make money as money but to do many things which he believes are of public benefit and that he can put his money to better public use than the government can.

He says he did not spend the money he made before the era of high taxes. He put it into production. It has gone to the support of two million people. It has permitted the farmer and his wife to come to town whenever they like. It has let millions of people get out into the fresh air and it has made the automobile a thing that the poor man can have.

Furthermore he says with the high surtaxes advocated as a benefit to the poor man or the man of moderate means he doubts if ever he could have reached a point where he could have reached a car under $1500 and that only by paying very low wages.

He insists he should have to paid low wages for the backs of men and not the backs of machines would have had to bear the weight of production. It is the opinion of the billionaire manufacturer that the men who tell the country that the high incomes must be cut down are not working for the benefit of the masses but what they are really saying is something like this: "You workmen and farmers have got all you ought to have. Let us stop progress right here. From now on this country must be run for the benefit of politicians."

Henry Ford is one of the most interesting men on the stage of action. He is not a radical. He makes no bones in saying that he is interested in seeing everybody getting a better living with less effort, he is against anything which stops the country where it is and his theory is that one of the great troubles with Europe is that the people exist for the government.

Taxes over there take up what surplus ought to be used for bettering conditions. He holds that if the surplus of industry is taken away then in hard times a concern must borrow and soon we have "industry owned by banks. That is what happened in Europe. Sometime I wonder if support of the Mellon bill by the banks is sincere. It is all rather funny in a way. The radicals support a high tax program which would throw industry into the hands of the banks while the banks support a program which would keep industry in the hands of the owners and operated for the benefit of the people."

He insists he should have to paid low wages for the backs of men and not the backs of machines would have had to bear the weight of production. It is the opinion of the billionaire manufacturer that the men who tell the country that the high incomes must be cut down are not working for the benefit of the masses but what they are really saying is something like this: "You workmen and farmers have got all you ought to have. Let us stop progress right here. From now on this country must be run for the benefit of politicians."

ANOTHER FORMER TEXAN

Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes is on trial in New York City on the charge of forging Charles M. Schwab's endorsement to a $25,000 note. Mrs. Hayes has had a spectacular career in the financial circles of New York as well as in the building circles of the east. The steel king first refused to admit that the note was a forgery but he had to establish the fact that it was a forgery or pay the $25,000 to the holder of the note.

Not many years ago Mr. Hayes was a dashing milliner in the City of Dallas in the state of Texas. She journeyed to the land of the rising sun, established herself on Manhattan Island and became Napoleonic in her transactions.

She was building a million dollar hotel when the Schwab note landed her in the dragnet of the law and forced her picture into the public prints. Texas is a great state and Texas has produced some amazing men and women.

WATCHING JOHN W. DAVIS

Now the politicians and the correspondents are watching John W. Davis of West Virginia and New York. Among his clients have been many labor leaders and organizations and as a member of congress he introduced an amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust law exempting labor organizations and their members.

This is a world of surprises. West Virginia may win fame as the mother of presidents in the years to come. And why not Texas? Every president of the United States has been the favorite son of some one of the forty-eight states and yet Texas has never furnished a president or admitted the presence of a favorite son.

THE YOUNG MAN'S SONG

By George S. Chappell

What means this tremor in my breast?
And why, I wonder, do my feet
Dance to a syncopated beat
Along the primrose way?
Why do I long to leap and run
And butt my head into the sun.
Although I know it can't be done,
Can anybody say?

Is it the sun on yonder hill,
Or merry music of the mill,

Doctor Crane's Editorial

The heaviest item of news for some time past has consisted of scandal.

There is the Teapot Dome scandal. It was charged that lands belonging to the government, lands containing petroleum supplies, had been sold to private parties and that the transaction had been tainted with fraud.

The there was the scandal connected with the Veterans' bureau. Investigating committees of the United States senate have been unearthing all sorts of transactions more or less crooked.

Senators, representatives, prominent business men, members of the cabinet, presidents and ex-presidents have been more or less splattered by the flying mud. The national nominating conventions of the two parties are approaching, and unfortunately scandal-mongering is not without its uses in those bitterly partisan bodies. It is time for sober citizens to keep their heads and to seek to do justice in a way that will not produce more injustice as a by-product.

If any man has been guilty of wrong doing he should be punished so long as we are operating under the law of rewards and punishments.

It might be well, however, to bear in mind that there is a great deal of difference between charging one with a crime and proving it.

Senators and representatives are privileged to say things that no outside citizen would dare to say. The temptation is very great to make reckless statements. Unfortunately, there are plenty of blatherers in both the senate and the house of representatives.

For this reason the public should suspend judgment until the facts have been proved.

Scandal is like mud; it is easy to throw and hard to scrape off.

Only too many people are anxious and willing to believe any sort of evil of prominent persons.

I have been in Washington. I have attended the sessions of the senate and the house and also those of the investigating committees. My own judgment is that the majority of public men are honest. It is difficult for a dishonest man to remain very long in public life on account of the blaze of publicity under which he constantly acts and also on account of the close watch which his record is scrutinized by the opposing party.

I think the people of the country should be assured that the majority of their public servants are conscientious and trustworthy. If occasionally a rascal gets into high office, he

INVESTMENTS A LONG WAY OFF

USUALLY NOT AS GOOD AS LOCAL INVESTMENTS

As a general rule it is a good thing to invest in the securities of corporations close enough home to keep your eye on the business to a certain extent. There are exceptions, of course, to all rules.

The man who has just put his money into a pecan grove in a distant state and begs of you to taste one of the nuts to prove their lusciousness may have a good investment, but the man who owns a block of stock in the light and power company that operates in his own locality and supplies the light by which he reads his daily paper is likely to receive dividends while the other receives his sample bags of nuts yearly.

Money invested in local industries that are well managed can be more easily watched. You have a chance to know the value of the company's properties, the extent and nature of their competition, if any, and most of all, the character of the management of the business.

does not last long.

Partisanship tends to inflame passions and puts a premium upon reckless and startling charges.

After all this tumult has died down, I think it will be found that, far from being widespread, crankiness and graft among high officials of the government have been confined to very few.

We should not minimize the turpitude of the betrayal of a public trust, but on the other hand we should remember that starting a scandal is very easy and news of scandal is very interesting; and the public will do well to suspend judgment on scandalous charges until proof is forthcoming.

Also, that the atmosphere of the national legislature where senators and representatives can indulge in all sorts of wild talk and not be in danger of being sued for libel, is very favorable to the spread of scandal.

CHAPTER I The Shadow of War

Mary Farnival was knitting blank socks.

The September sunshine, piercing the lace curtains, shone on her quiet face and the flying needles in her white fingers.

From her curled-up position in a corner of the couch, Dolly Bretherton watched her with concealed impatience.

Dolly could not have knitted socks had her life depended on it; she had made one or two attempts, and had given it up in despair.

The stitches would drop from between her pretty, useless-looking fingers, and the wool got entangled; but she envied Mary Farnival's quiet capability as she sat there in the afternoon sunshine, placidly adding row upon row of the buff-colored wool.

In the middle of turning a heel, she looked up, and met Dolly's eyes. "Well?" she queried.

Dolly frowned.

"I suppose you think that I ought to be making socks too?" she submitted, half-resentfully.

Mary Farnival laughed, a laugh that ended with a sigh.

"If I wasn't thinking anything of the sort, I was just wondering if— if Nigel will ever come back."

The words seemed to escape before she realized their import; she broke off hurriedly, and, leaning over, caught Dolly's hand.

"Oh, am so sorry, dear! I ought not to have said that. Of course he will come back."

There was a little silence. Dolly had flushed up to the roots of her hair; she left hand—the one that bore Nigel Bretherton's wedding ring, opened and shut convulsively over the folds of her frock.

The half-sister had fallen from Mary's lap to the floor; Dolly looked down at it, and a little shiver shook her.

Nigel had been one of the first to answer his country's call, and since then everyone had been so good to her. They had all taken it for granted that she must be heart-broken at parting with him; they had all been so sorry for her.

That had been the hardest part of it all—the having to pretend, to eternally act, and keep them all blind to the horrible truth that Nigel had been glad to get far from her for months of their married life he said she had been unwilling prisoners, chained together, each straining at the bondage holding them.

It had been a mistaken marriage, for which she now knew she alone had been to blame.

CHAPTER II Dolly's Love Story

Looking back to that April morning eighteen months ago, it all seemed such a foolish, stupid blunder.

She had hated her life of nursery governess to a couple of spoilt, unmanageable children; she had hated their mother, a haughty, unympathetic, nouveau riche; and, most of all, she had hated the unkind freak of fortune that had made Robert Durham a poor man. All her life she had loved amongst poverty—the gentle, hard-to-bear kind of poverty which struggles so hard to keep up appearance—and her soul shrank from perpetrating it by marriage with Robert Durham.

She loved him; she loved him as well as it was in her to love any man, and yet she could not face the prospect of a successful villa and a small income for the rest of her life.

And then one golden April evening, Nigel Bretherton had opened the schoolroom door and walked into her life.

She could recall it all so plainly now, though it was eighteen months ago; see him as she had seen him then—tall, and good to look upon with the quick admiration in his eyes as they rested on her face.

He had opened the schoolroom door after that, and by the time she had found out that he was a well-to-do younger son with prospects, he had proposed.

They were married in less than a month; he explained that there was nothing to wait for.

"I haven't any people except a brother who's been living in South Africa for a couple of years, and probably will never come back. He's a good deal older than I am, and delicate—a quiet sort of chap. I don't think you'd like him, Dolly."

So they married in haste, and came back from a honeymoon of disillusionment and petty disagreements, with all the remainder of their lives in which to repeat at leisure.

Dolly had discovered many things during that brief honeymoon, the most important of which was the fact that she would never care for any man half so well as she had cared for Robert Durham; the next in importance being that her husband was perfectly conscious of the fact that he had married a woman beneath his own station in life.

The Bretherton's of Little Helton were "somebodies," even though the old mansion which had been theirs for centuries had been let for some years, a fact which Dolly resented.

She would have liked to be the lady of the manor; she would have liked to live amongst blue-blooded memories and portraits of ancestors. One day she said so to Nigel.

But he only laughed.

"The old place belongs to David," he said. "I suppose I shall get it in the end, but you'll have to wait."

He took a charming flat for her in Kensington, but Dolly could not forget the pictures she had seen of the Red Grange.

"Why is it?" she insisted truthfully. "Why don't you live there?"

Nigel frowned.

"It's David's, as long as he's alive; I told you that; and when he was ordered abroad for his health, he thought it best to let the old place, I should have gone melancholy mad.

"We could entertain, if he would let us live there."

"The fact is," he said desperately, "David doesn't know I'm married. I haven't told him—he's such a peevish chap."

"How easy flamed."

"You mean that you're ashamed to tell him that you married a girl who was only a governess?" she cried.

He put a conciliating arm about her.

"Don't be a little silly; you know I was awfully in love with you," he protested—perhaps neither of them noticed that already he spoke of his passion for her as a thing of the past—anyway, the fact is, it is a fact of David's, he can't say my allowance; every penny I've got comes from him, and he might make it awkward."

That was all eighteen months ago now, and David was still abroad.

All these thoughts passed with lightning's rapidity through Dolly Bretherton's mind as she sat curled up in the corners of the big couch, watching Mary Farnival.

It hardly took her a moment to traverse many weeks since that sunny April morning when Nigel had opened the schoolroom door and walked into her life, down to the present month when all the world was torn and convulsed with strife and horror, and somewhere, somewhere unknown, the man she had married was fighting for his country.

He had asked her permission, certainly, but she knew that he only did so perfunctorily—that he would have gone just the same, whatever she said. The war fever had got into his very bones.

And so, there had been a few days' rush and excitement, during which she had been vaguely proud of having a man in uniform, to walk about with, and then the farewell.

Dolly got up dutifully at five o'clock one gray morning and saw him march away with his regiment; she stood in the chilly street long after the tramp of feet had died away before she went back to the flat where Mary Farnival was waiting for her—ashamed, because she knew that in her heart was a strange feeling of relief.

Life was to go on as usual; Nigel's bankers paid her a generous allowance every month; she was to keep on the flat, and have Mary to live with her.

Nigel had known Mary Farnival long before he ever met his wife. She was one of those quiet, wonderful people who are never missed or realized until they are taken away.

He had asked her—in his selfish man's way—to be a friend to the girl he was about to marry. He had never seen the sudden look of shock that crossed her quiet face, or the blanching of her lips before she forced them to smile.

"Why, of course I will," she had said, and she had kept her word.

She had given up the two unpromising little rooms which were her home, and moved into Dolly's smart flat, where the sight of Nigel's sessions lying about wrong her heart every day.

CHAPTER III "Glad to Go"

Mary Farnival's gentle voice broke the silence of the sunny room again.

"He will come back, Dolly, dear; please God he will come back safe."

"Dolly flung aside the caressing hand, and rose to her feet.

"You all seem determined that I shall go on pretending," she said harshly. "Sometimes I feel as if I must scream when people asked after Nigel, and pretend to be so sorry for me. Why, you must know, if nobody else does, that we were tired of each other almost as soon as we were married. Oh, I know I ought not to say these things," she burst out, as Mary gave a little gasp. "But I shall die if I can't say them to somebody. I feel such a bungling—such an absolute lumping!"

She came back to where Mary was sitting, and dropped on her knees by the elder girl, hailing her hot face in her lap.

Announcement At Party Tells Of Approaching Wedding of Local Couple

RUMORS of the engagement and approaching marriage of Mrs. Gladys Button, a charming and attractive Port Arthur matron, and Dr. J. A. Bledsoe, prominent physician, were verified Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Button entertained with a beautifully appointed bridge at her home, 1903 Fifth street, with the announcement coming during the late hours of the afternoon.

The home was a veritable bower of loveliness with masses of gorgeous pink and white roses clustered in baskets, topped with fluffs of pink tulle, and placed in graceful arrangements about the rooms given over to the hospitality.

The pink and white motif was displayed in all details of the affair and in the bridge table appointments.

Ten tables of players enjoyed the games in which Mrs. Joe Park received the first prize for high score and Mrs. Clifford G. Hall was awarded the second favor. Consolation fell to Mrs. Robert Saffley, and a lovely guest prize was awarded Miss Eloise Arms of Chicago, the charming houseguest of Miss Beulah Fly Bledsoe.

At the close of the games and just preceding serving of the refreshments, Mrs. Button's mother, Mrs. E. L. Canada, assisted by Miss Frances Canada placed a dainty basket holding gay colored Easter eggs, on each table for the guests. To each Easter egg was attached a white ribbon, and after breaking the eggs the guests were surprised to find at the end of each small ribbon a pretty pink calendar of the month of May, and the date of the wedding, May 5, undecorated. A lovely ice course was served on attractively decorated trays, each tray being centered with a crystal chandelier holding a pink taper and tied with pink tulle bows. The ice was molded in the form of pink hearts, and dainty pink roses adorned the white icing of the cakes.

The personnel of the gracious affair included Mrs. Jewel Latimer, Mrs. Frank D. Mabey, Mrs. Harry Baker, Mrs. J. L. Grammer, Mrs. A. Durke, Mrs. L. M. Ashby, Mrs. R. W. McMillen, Mrs. M. D. Carter, Mrs. B. H. Vaughan, Mrs. Robert Saffley, Mrs. M. J. Painter, Mrs. E. F. Adams, Mrs. A. R. Major, Mrs. George Stovall, Mrs. G. K. Lomax, Mrs. W. D. McFarland, Mrs. J. D. Thompson, Mrs. M. F. Bledsoe, Mrs. C. G. Hall, Mrs. W. L. Crumpler, Mrs. C. Joe Park, Mrs. C. L. McLean, Mrs. A. R. Lutter, Mrs. W. B. Johnson, Mrs. L. W. Vaughan, Mrs. W. L. Weatherall, Mrs. M. S. Swearingen, Mrs. R. L. Drake, Mrs. George Holland, Mrs. Pat Reed, Mrs. J. D. Carter, Mrs. Pearl Briley, Mrs. G. L. Canada, Miss Emma R. Walker, Miss Myrtle Hays, Miss Margaret Walsh, Miss Beulah Fly Bledsoe, Miss Eloise Arms of Chicago, Mrs. E. L. Canada, Miss Frances Canada, and the hostess, Mrs. Gladys Button.

Announcement of the approaching wedding is of unusual interest to society on account of the social prominence of both Mrs. Button and Dr. Bledsoe. The wedding is the culmination of a delightful romance begun at Mary Gates Hospital, with which institution Mrs. Button has been affiliated as secretary the last sixteen months. She resigned this position last Monday. Dr. Bledsoe, though only residing in Port Arthur a few years, is widely known here and is one of Port Arthur's prominent physicians. He is a younger brother of Dr. M. F. Bledsoe.

Visitor Honored By Sister With Bridge Party

Mrs. A. W. Walker, Jr., of Dallas, formerly Miss Anna Josephine Williams of this city, who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams, was complimented with a charmingly appointed bridge Saturday afternoon, which had as hostess, her sister, Miss Anna Williams, at her home, 1515 Procter street. Mrs. Walker returned Saturday night to her home in Dallas.

A delicate motif of yellow and white was effectively displayed in the home adornment and suggested in lovely Easter lilies and jonquils which gave floral beauty and in the bridge table accessories. Four tables of players enjoyed the games, with Miss May Alice Walker scoring high and receiving the first prize and Miss Dovie Smith the second. Consolation fell to Miss Cora Walker, and the guest favor was presented to the guest of honor, Mrs. Walker. A dainty ice course, with the ices molded in the form of pretty yellow Easter chicks, was offered after the games.

The personnel of the charming affair included Mrs. A. W. Walker, Jr., Mrs. Kyle Elam, Miss Dovie Smith, Miss May Alice Walker, Miss Cora Walker, Miss Beulah Fly Bledsoe, Miss Eloise Arms of Chicago, Miss Frankie Mae Taylor, Miss Irene Williams, Miss Evelyn Baker, Mrs. Harry H. Holton, Mrs. C. E. Boaz, Jr., Miss Ruth Corbett, Miss Isabel Davis, Miss Marie LeMaster, Mrs. Russell Dunn and Miss Anna Williams.

SUNRISE BREAKFAST ENJOYED YESTERDAY

The girls of the Walcott Campfire and their guardian, Mrs. L. P. Daspit, and the boys of the Bicycle Patrol and their leader, L. P. Daspit, enjoyed a most delightful sunrise breakfast and Easter egg hunt yesterday morning at the Gates Pier.

The young people and their chaperones met at the Knights of Columbus hall and hiked to the Seacrest hut. After crossing the canal some of the young people enjoyed a dip in the lake, while others tried to gain honor beads in cooking and firemaking. Several passed the tests. A tempting breakfast of oranges, eggs, crisp bacon and coffee was served, following which the young people returned home.

Enjoying the outing were Florence Brunner, Lucille Breuer, Katherine Tawcek, Virginia Jacoby, Clara Rogers, Leona Rogers, Marie Berlin, Odie Jauchlin, Isabel Billeaud, Mary Steinhil, Louise Marchbanks, Ada Vandergift, Grace Higginbotham, Bruns Watts, Howell Hies, Walton Duneson, Lones Provest, George Stahl, Leonard Standbury, Irwin Langhain, Mrs. V. L. Beaux and son Leonard, Mildred and Verlie Vandergift, and Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Daspit.

On Saturday afternoon the girls met at the K. C. hall with their guardian, Mrs. L. P. Daspit, and the girls' first ceremonial was conducted by Mrs. Emmett Welch. The girls of the Walcott Campfire was to give their appreciation for Mrs. Welch's interest in their ceremonial meeting.

MARY ALICE SHERMAN HAS EASTER EGG HUNT

Mrs. J. Sherman entertained her little daughter, Mary Alice, with an Easter egg hunt Saturday afternoon at her home, 1101 Eleventh street. The prize for finding the most eggs was awarded to Nelson Boulton.

Enjoying the afternoon were Jeanette Rutherford, Hazel Carey, Viola Chadwick, Ruth Chadwick, Pearl Norwood, Beatrice Richardson, Margaret Linestrom, Gertrude Norwood, Irene Chadwick, Audrey Linestrom, Enola Thibodeaux, Mabel Domingue, Virginia Norwood, Doris McNulty, Inez Domingue, Thekla Street, Bernice Gidley, Elodie Richards, Alfred Linestrom, Whitner Linestrom, Nelson Boulton, Carol Richard, Odie Street, Jimmie Carey, Dudley Rutherford, Woodrow Rutherford, Leonora Sherman, Edward Carey and Mary Alice Sherman.

Thrill Essays Written for First National Bank by Pupils of Port Arthur Public Schools

All boys and girls should be "thrifty." Money always will come in handy when they grow up. The boy or girl making a failure in school will if he be "thrifty" have enough money to take care of himself until he finds a job. If a person wishes to be "thrifty" he or she must not spend anything except what they must to live on and not be selfish. In other words not to be spending all the time but to spend enough to be kind. A boy that is thrifty while young will have enough to take himself through college. He can buy a lot of anything and make profit. A rich man may spend his money for any unnecessary thing, a poor man has to be "thrifty" if he wishes to be rich.

Here's What to Eat and— Lose Weight Gain Weight

Four tablespoons stewed rhubarb, 1 poached egg, 1 cup tomato bouillon, 1 cup combination vegetable salad, 4 ounces roast leg of lamb, 1 tablespoon mint sauce, 2 small new boiled potatoes with minced parsley, 10 stalks fresh asparagus, 1-2 head lettuce with lemon juice and minced onion dressing, 4 tablespoons shredded fresh pineapple, 2 small pieces crisp gluten toast, 1 gluten roll, 1 slice whole wheat bread, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1204. Protein, 342; fat, 351; carbohydrate, 311. Iron, 0.185 gram.

The mineral oil mentioned for the head lettuce can be found at any drug store. It is an excellent lubricant, has little or no food value and is very palatable combined with lemon juice or vinegar or in a mayonnaise dressing.

Remember that these reducing diets are planned for the normal, healthy, merely too fat person. If you must diet because of any organic trouble consult your physician and follow his diet list.

And don't expect to see your surplus weight melt like a block of ice in the July sun. The first two or three weeks may not make any perceptible difference. Flabby fat may become firm from exercise and you may begin to feel more alert.

These diets are low in fats but provide enough to maintain perfect health. Concentrated sweets are taboo but natural sugar and starch is furnished by fruits and vegetables. Protein is supplied by vegetables and grains as well as meats, so there is little danger of an excess of acidity being caused.

SUE TO SARAH HENDRICKS, CONTINUED

It was rather interesting to hear the doctor this morning, Sadie. He said that Mr. Carlton was getting along all right, except that his nerves seemed to be troubling him—his nerves seemed shot to pieces. Mr. Carlton looked at me, but I acted as if the doctor's diagnosis meant nothing to me.

After the doctor had gone Mr. Carlton continued:

"What do you think I had better do with this little piece of coral, Miss Bledsoe?"

"Well," I said, "that depends on how much you believe of the story connected with it."

"Of course I don't believe any of it."

"Then, do you want to keep the trinket?"

"Of course I do. He's a pretty fellow, isn't he?"

"Personally, Mr. Carlton," I answered, "I think he's very ugly, but I think he's very interesting and I should think you'd want to keep him."

I said this, Sadie, because I knew the poor man wanted to hang on to the little statue, and besides I couldn't explain why he hadn't turned him over to his friend in the first place.

"Well, I guess I'll take your advice," said Mr. Carlton. "But remember if I get into any trouble you'll have to take the blame," he added with a smile.

"Isn't that just like a man?" He's always wanting some woman to be vicariously punished for his own sins.

There, my dear, I have shattered every bit of professional ethics possible in this letter, but it was so interesting and I know you will not betray me in any way—we have been together too long and talked over too many bedside secrets.

"I haven't yet decided whether Mr. Carlton is in love with his friend's wife or not, but I do know this, however much he is in love with her, she doesn't know it and he will never tell her. Between you and me I think he is quite the best man of the two, although Mr. Prescott seemed very charming."

I could see he is rather weak where women are concerned. I'd awfully much like to see Mrs. Prescott. I imagine she is a very nice woman—otherwise she would not have written the kind of a letter she did to her husband about the little girl.

I'm wondering why this Mr. Sydney Carlton was never married. I should have thought that somebody would have gobbled him up, for you know, Sadie, that if any woman gets her eye upon a man she is usually

Thrill Essays Written for First National Bank by Pupils of Port Arthur Public Schools

All boys and girls should be "thrifty." Money always will come in handy when they grow up. The boy or girl making a failure in school will if he be "thrifty" have enough money to take care of himself until he finds a job. If a person wishes to be "thrifty" he or she must not spend anything except what they must to live on and not be selfish. In other words not to be spending all the time but to spend enough to be kind. A boy that is thrifty while young will have enough to take himself through college. He can buy a lot of anything and make profit. A rich man may spend his money for any unnecessary thing, a poor man has to be "thrifty" if he wishes to be rich.

And many more dollars spent in order that Port Arthur might be a good place for you to live. Many more dollars will be spent for improvements in the near future.

Summing it up—it presents the big difference between the home-spent dollar and the dollar spent elsewhere.

The figures quoted above are tremendous evidence of the growth of Port Arthur from a town to a city. Only belief in the substantiality of Port Arthur could have induced the citizenship to make an expenditure of such magnitude.

More is required, however, than civic improvements to make a city progress and prosper. There is much more to be considered than just voting for bond issues and paying taxes. You must support with your money and your influence local enterprises. It is physically impossible for Port Arthur to grow faster or greater than its business interests. This business is the very life blood of the community.

Let's join together to put Port Arthur over the top. Let us resolve now to put every ounce of energy and thought into making Port Arthur a monument to our endeavor to carve a name for our community high among the cities of Texas and the South.

Port Arthur Athletics, In First Game, Trim Beaumont 30 to 0

New Team Proves To Be Fast Nine

Perkins, Humphries, Polodina, Townsend, Palmer Have Great Day at Bat and Chase Three Moundmen to Showers With Mean Willows

By BILL AROHER

PANDEMONIUM broke loose in the sixth of a scheduled nine-inning ball game at Cosmopolitan Park Sunday afternoon, and the Port Arthur Athletics club's nine scored 30 runs to win a 30-to-0 clash over the Beaumont All-Stars. Perry, Lauve and Karnaky, all of whom were sent to the mound for duty during the game, looked like the proverbial million dollars, and the Beaumonters got away with only one hit for the game, that having been collected in the first frame when H. Angelo, lead man, doubled.

The game was called in the seventh by agreement in order that members of the visiting squad could make connections home.

The Athletics chased three visiting twirlers to the showers in the six innings they faced Beaumont of ferings, and made the fifth frame look like a race-kill with scores. In that inning, the Athletics batted around three times, collected 15 hits, and swung willows like veterans.

Bell and Perry opened the fire-works for Port A.

Well, Angelo's hit in the opening round landed squarely over second base, and rolled too wide to be fielded. That was all Perry allow I.

He walked the next man up and struck out two others, the third popping out to Corley. In the second frame, Perry chopped the victors away three in a row, and fanned another in the third.

Lauve relieved Perry in the inception of the fourth round and collected four strikes out in the two frames he twirled. Pete Karnaky finished the task, two double plays. Inns to Perkins, and Humphries to Perkins, retiring the city's guests.

Local Hit McDonald

The locals got to McDonald, who opened on the mound for Beaumont, in the first round, who relieved him, and a single from Perkins' stick bringing in a couple of tallies.

In the third, Port Arthur scored again, two singles, a walk and a double netting three runs. Perkins tripped in the fourth and drove in Draughan, who had walked, and a double delivered by Corley in a bit-and-run play score Perkins for two more tallies.

McDonald was yanked in the sixth when the locals scored six runs in a row, and Casey, who relieved him, fared little better, five runs being chalked against him. H. Angelo was sent in to meet a similar fate, and Felix finished the task, retiring the Port Arthur club after 23 tallies had been chalked on the slate.

New Squad Is Fast

In their first clash, the new local squad developed not only a hard-hitting crew, but revealed a fast fielding, and well-balanced baseball machine that should carry it far in the realms of independent circles this season.

Bell and Townsend executed the catching duty in great style; the twirling of the local moundmen was above par. Perkins had a big day with his stick, and collected six hits in as many trips to the plate. Humphries, Polodina, Townsend and Palmer found connecting rods, too, and finished the game in the 1,000 percent batting row.

In view of the Elks' game here next Sunday against Sulphur Mines, the PAAC club will probably take a road jaunt, their opponents not having been announced yet. On Sunday, May 4, they meet a fast independent nine from Houston in Cosmopolitan Park. A band will furnish music for the occasion.

NEDERLAND IN TWO VICTORIES

Defeat Port Neches and Heights Nines Sunday

NEDERLAND, Texas, April 21.—In two flashy ball games staged for local fans here yesterday, Nederland's Sluggers stepped out in front and defeated the Port Neches Stars, 7 to 5, while the Port Arthur Heights went down 9 to 6. Both games were well attended, and hard fought.

Sturdivant, right fielder for the locals, had a big day with his stick, and connected for two swats in both games, coming to the plate for duty four times each in each contest.

Reich and Pierce, who twirled the respective clashes, looked well all the way, and were too fast for the opposing batsmen.

Wednesday, South Park College will invade the local diamond for a game with the Sluggers, and Sunday afternoon, the Port Arthur Athletics will come here for their second game of the season. The scores yesterday:

Actor May Take On Winner of Friday's Jones-Thompson Go

Winner of the Jones-Thompson finish wrestling match here Friday night may be pitted against the victor in the Dusek-Actor bill at Houston tonight.

This hasn't been officially announced by any of the powers that be in the local wrestling world, but it's highly possible anyway.

Fans clamoring for it

Fans have been clamoring for a bout between Jones and Actor for months; in fact, ever since Jones made his initial appearance in the arena against Harry Manos. Should Actor win over Dusek, and Jones over Thompson, the two-light-heavyweights may be drawn together for a bill here.

With such calibre men coming into the city, the local mat game bids fair to excel any record it has previously established.

Actor and Dusek are primed and trained to the fine points of the game for their encounter in Houston tonight; Thompson and Jones are in training for their bill here Friday night. Fans who witness either contest will be treated to a wrestling match.

Jones in Good Condition

Promoter Julius Sigel will accompany Paul Jones to Port Arthur Friday night, and is predicting that "Jones will give this boy Thompson a real run for his money—perhaps a real run that Dusek gave him." Jones, who writes Port Arthur is in the pink of health.

"Dusek won from him on a fluke; he didn't beat Jones," Sigel declares, and then he qualifies his remark with the statement that "there isn't a wrestler that has planned his shoulders in his own weight."

Thompson will probably develop the biggest surprise the Houston area has encountered in his short career on the mats; the husky Washington grappler, who tips the beams at 198 pounds, resembles his opponent in many respects. He is lean and lanky, with long, rangy arms that have a vice-like grip in them, especially when he applies his headlock. Jack he seems to like as much as Arty.

The two men are well-matched, about the same height and only three pounds difference in their weights. Jones will weigh in at about 155.

Special to The News

ORANGE, Texas, April 21.—The Orange Diamonds continued their winning streak Sunday by defeating the fast Port Arthur Elks' club by the score of 11 to 1.

"Lefty" Odum, who was on the mound for the Diamonds, was complete master of the situation from beginning to end. Port Arthur was able to get only three safe blows during the entire contest.

Features of the game was the hard hitting of the Diamonds, who were especially with Nemitz setting two two-base hits.

The Diamonds are looking forward to a game with Jennings' team next Sunday on the home grounds.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

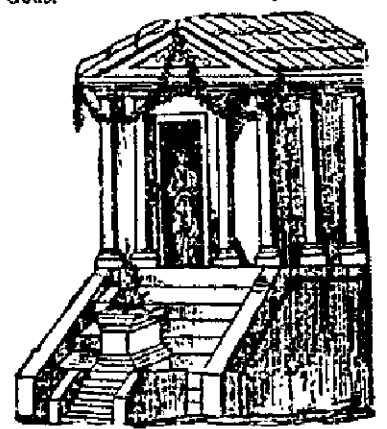

Sure enough, there was Tom Thumb

"You'll never, never guess where we are going next," said Mister Muggs, as he started his little automobile.
"Where?" cried both the Twins.
"To see Tom Thumb. He lives in Once-Upon-a-Time Land, too, with his father and mother."
Well, the little car went past seven forests and over seven rivers and finally stopped at a gate in front of a farmhouse.
When they knocked at the door, Mrs. Thumb herself opened it.
"Oh, dear!" she sobbed. "It's it! It's dreadful! You've heard the bad news, of course."
"What bad news?" asked Mister Muggs. "No, we didn't hear of any bad news. What happened?"
"It's Tom!" cried Mrs. Thumb. "He's gone again. Once he was lost down a house-hole and once the cow ate him and once the wolf gobbled him up."
"But when he came home the last time we thought he was safe, and now he's been gone since yesterday morning."
"Well, then, if that's the case," said Mister Muggs, "we'll hunt for him. That's what we came for, to help anybody in trouble. For all though the stories all say, 'and they lived happily ever after,' you can never be sure. The Fairy Queen sent us."
First they went to see the lion. "Did you eat Tom Thumb?" asked Mr. Muggs.
"How big is he?" asked the lion. "As big as one of your eyes," said the lion. "I wouldn't be bothered," said the lion. And he turned over and went to sleep.
Then they went to see the tiger. "Did you eat Tom Thumb?" asked Nick. "How fat is he?" asked the tiger. "Not fat at all," said Nick. "Then I wouldn't be bothered," said the tiger, giving his tail a whack against the ground to show that he meant it. Then they went to see the bear. "Did you eat Tom Thumb?" asked Nancy. "How sweet is he?" asked the bear. "Ho isn't sweet at all!" said Nancy. "Oh, get out!" growled the bear. "If I can't have honey I won't eat anything." So they all went back to the house.
"What were you doing yesterday?" asked Mister Muggs. "I made apple-butter," said Mrs. Thumb. "Where did you put it?" "In his crock in my cellar," said Mrs. Thumb. "Then that's where your son is," declared Mister Muggs. And when they lifted a lid, sure enough there was Tom Thumb, looking like a brownie. (To Be Continued) (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

Washing Away Sins With Blood
People often do things they believe bad. Then they are likely to have troubled minds. They worry over what they have done, wishing they had acted in a different way. They want to do something to make up for the evil they have caused. The Romans were worried about their sins. They had the habit of offering sacrifices to the gods. That means they killed dumb beasts. They hoped the blood would wash away the stains on their souls.
Every five years, farmers had a habit of killing three animals at a time—a bull, a ram, and a bear. A picture of such a sacrifice is shown. At the right, you will see two altars. They are covered with fruit, and over each a garland is hung. Above the altars are small sacred trees.
The priest can be seen before one of the altars. He has his robe or toga over his head so that it looks like a hood. To his left is a helper who holds a box of incense. Other helpers are behind. Most of them have garlands above their heads. One holds an axe to be used for killing the beasts. Sacrifices of this kind were usually made in honor of Mars, the god of war, or Jupiter, king of the gods. Sometimes altars were placed on the steps of temples, and fires were lighted on top. People brought offerings to the temple to be placed on the fire. The flames could often be seen by persons praying inside.
NEXT—A Temple for All the Gods.

In the picture we see a fire built on an altar placed on a temple stairway.

 April 21, 1924. Speculative interest was encouraged at the close of the week by a clearer outlook regarding the political situation. Announcement of republican victory at Cleveland already had been enough to stimulate speculation on the first ballot, was expected to suggest that chances of a third party were rapidly declining. Reports from business centers indicated that the advent of favorable conditions was being awaited with some hesitancy lately evidenced by a sharp drop in Congoleum was followed by excited trading at closing. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 21. Cecilia Conville, bobbed hair bandit for months defied police of New York City while she lived by her wits and cool nerve, was being trailed by police today. Acting on advice of New York police, Jacksonville police early today trapped her in a rooming house.

"Don't shoot," screamed the girl as ready automatics had cornered her in New York for months. If you don't shoot, I won't," she cried, and officers demanded that she surrender.

The promise was kept and police crept the dining room and found Cecilia and her husband, Edward Conville, both were taken to police headquarters and New York officials notified. They will be questioned later.

EIGHT VESSELS ARRIVE HERE

Two Others Reported Due
This Afternoon

Eight vessels arrived Sunday and today, and two expected to dock late this afternoon or early Tuesday are reported for ports of the district. Of this number, both the ships due and six of the arrivals are for Port Arthur. The two ships expected are the Gulf Refining company's tanker Gulfstar, from Tampico, and the Texas company's tanker Lightburne, from Norfolk.

The schooner Rosalie Bellevue, loaded at the Texas company's terminals here, completed loading and sailed at noon Saturday for the West Indies. Upon arriving in port recently, the Rosalie Bellevue went up the canal for repairs in a shipyard, returning to Port Arthur several days ago to load for the West Indies.

The Norwegian steamship Ellstad, which has been lifting about a million feet of lumber at the Cotton docks, was scheduled to go to Orange today or Tuesday to complete loading for Buenos Aires.

The Weather Gods Smiled On Port Arthur For Easter And New Finery Was Seen

The prayers of those who bought new Easter hats and dresses were answered yesterday with excellent weather and Procter street was the scene of a fashion display worthy of Fifth Avenue. Gay spring colors were particularly in evidence and everywhere flower-bedecked hats flitted by in cars and on the sidewalks.

The style ranged from clothes of the fanciest color and design to plain knickers and coats worn by some of the men.

During the afternoon Procter street was thronged with cars filled with spectators and all during the day the sidewalks were filled with pedestrians. Not only the women, it seems, were proud of their new Easter attire, but the men as well were on parade.

The fashion show was not confined to Procter street for all of the outlying streets were crowded with joy-riders as well.

Yesterday signaled the advent of the larger and wider summer hats worn by the women which supplanted the smaller winter hats which were heretofore in style.

The younger girls as well as their older sisters were proudly attired in new hats and outfits.

The little girls and boys on the street frantically clutched their first Easter hats. One little boy was so concerned with keeping his hat on that he failed to notice the loss of a wheel off his toy wagon while he was crossing the street. He even refused to relinquish his grasp on his hat to help fix his wagon when the wheel was retrieved by a passerby and given to him.

Pearce.—Conrad Nagel in "Name the Man."
Strand.—J. Warren Kerrigan in "The Green Flame."
Liberty.—Franklyn Farnum in "Green Trees"—"Pioneer Trails."

FRANKLYN FARNUM STARS

Franklyn Farnum has engaged Mike Mills, who won three beauty contests to appear as his leading lady for a series of western pictures, of which "Baffled" is the first. "Baffled" will be seen at the Liberty theater today.

Mr. Farnum, who is noted for his love-making, as well as his love-making, and dancing, picked Miss Mills as his leading lady from over one hundred applicants, both for her beauty, charm and acting ability.

In the picture "Baffled," which is a stirring western drama away from the beaten path, both Mr. Farnum and Miss Mills are called upon to enact a stirring western drama away from its lushly original and has been produced with care and artistic discrimination.

FOUR KILLED BY WILD ENGINE

Locomotive Is Started And Then Abandoned

By United Press
CHICAGO, April 21.—A coroner's inquest held today to place the responsibility for the killing of four persons yesterday by a driverless locomotive and Ohio freight engine.

Somewhere turned on the power and the engine careening 40 miles an hour until it crashed into an automobile load of people on a Southern grade crossing.

The dead: Otto Devenant and his wife, Olga; Irving, 19-year-old son of the couple; William Lindberg, 27.

Two others in the car were injured. Police are holding Haza Lattle, negro hostler, at the Baltimore and Ohio yards, Max Orr, Elmer Howard, negroes, and Peter Cirkel.

Lattle told police he had cleaned the fire box of the engine and started a new fire a few moments before it was turned loose. He was in a daze, he said, when the engine was started.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 35c and 65c jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

Better than a mustard plaster

Lattle said he ran out and tried to overtake the engine, but it was going too rapidly. A man in a light tan coat leaped from the engine, just as it gathered high speed. Lattle told officers. The other men were in the yards at the time. Police do not believe his story.

The engine jumped the tracks and crashed into an embankment after hitting the automobile.

M'CRAV FACES TRIAL FOR SECOND TIME

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 21.—After being out of court just one week, Governor Warren T. McCray today went on trial a second time on charges of criminal acts growing out of the collapse of his personal fortune last summer.

McCray's federal court trial on charges of using the mails to defraud opened this morning with nearly 200 Indiana bankers called to testify for the government.

Read "His Brother's Wife," mystery story, beginning on Page 1 today.

Stop falling hair! Money Back If It Doesn't

Scalp specialists tell you the big problem with scalp ailments is to get the people to form a consistent habit of taking care of their hair.

Van Ewe Liquid Scalp Massage comes in a patented bottle with special rubber applicator attached. The method of application is easy and clearly. The medicament is fed through rubber nipples directly to the roots of the hair while the scalp is gently massaged. One minute a day with Van Ewe stops falling hair, relieves itching scalp and grows new hair. Ask about 30-day treatment plan. We give you a positive guarantee.

JUDGE JOHN R. KEOUGH REVIEWS FACTS IN CAS

Tells How Tanlac Won Decision Over Indigestion and Nervousness, Was So Miserable Duties of Office Were a Burden.

Judge John R. Keough, Justice of the Peace, 139 North Second St., Memphis, Tenn., is another man of prominence from whom the TANLAC treatment has elicited high commendation.

"Of one thing," recently said Judge Keough, "I am convinced beyond doubt and that is, TANLAC's goodness as a stomach medicine and general tonic. Before I took it my stomach was so out of fix that even the sight of food would nauseate me. And this indigestion had me so nervous and played-out that it was a burden for me to discharge the duties of my office."

"TANLAC set me right a year ago and I have had no more health troubles since. I can eat and digest just anything—even corned beef and cabbage—and my stomach and nerves are as good as a man could ask for. TANLAC will always get a good recommendation from me."

TANLAC is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.
